

Kolea

Pacific Golden-Plover
Pluvialis apricaria

fun
fact

Kolea migrate to Alaska from Hawai'i to breed - covering over 2,000 miles in a single nonstop flight

Adult plumage begins as a gold wash with dark speckling. As breeding plumage develops, adults molt to a darkened black covering the face, the neck, belly, & down to the feet! The black feathers are bordered with white, while the back is covered in gold & dark speckles.

Color my correct plumage!

Non-breeding adult

Breeding adult

CREATURE COLORING